Engaging ideas, transforming minds

Founded 30 years ago, Canadian Scholars remains one of Canada's leading independent academic publishing companies. We seek to offer books that showcase the work of established and emerging Canadian scholars while also balancing this unique Canadian perspective with international content. Canadian Scholars is committed to producing progressive research and scholarship that represent significant contributions to academic literature in a variety of disciplines.

Scholars Coursepack is Canada's leading coursepack publisher, providing outstanding service to instructors from coast to coast. We make it easy to choose readings from multiple sources and combine them into cost-effective course materials optimized for pedagogical goals. Scholars Coursepack publishes to the highest standards; we provide complete pagination, table of contents, and acknowledgements. We obtain all copyright permissions. And our exclusive online eProof tool allows you to review and approve your publication online, anytime, anywhere.

Women's Press has a long and distinguished history and has played an important part in the proliferation of feminist writing in Canada. Founded in 1972 by a small collective of women and armed with a mandate to publish contemporary material by, for, and about Canadian women, Women's Press is Canada's oldest English-language feminist publisher. Forty-four years later, Women's Press continues to publish high-quality scholarly writing in gender and women's studies.

Foundations of Education

A Social, Political, and Philosophical Approach
JASON C. ROBINSON

Examining some of the most prominent philosophers of all time—Plato, Aristotle, Locke, Rousseau, and Dewey—Foundations of Education provides insight into the historical theories of education that have shaped contemporary ideas and debates. Jason C. Robinson explores various conceptions of the social and political relevance, nature, and scope of education, while maintaining an accessible style and tone. This book's carefully selected writings, supplemented by learning activities, discussion questions, and key terms, will empower readers to critically evaluate the roles of education in their own lives, both as students and as teachers. This is a stimulating read for introductory-level students in the history of educational thought, general education theory, and childhood education.

Jason C. Robinson is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Humanities at York University.

Comparative and International Education

Issues for Teachers, Second Edition
EDITED BY KATHY BICKMORE, RUTH HAYHOE, CAROLINE MANION, KAREN MUNDY, AND ROBYN READ

With a stronger focus on the teacher's role and emerging alternative pedagogies in diverse settings, this thoroughly updated second edition draws on research by scholars from the Americas, Australia, Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Middle East. Comparative and International Education offers an overview of the history of comparative education and educational development, exploring issues related to social justice, human rights, gender equality, and Indigenous knowledge in the classroom. Appropriate for use in undergraduate and graduate education courses, this edited collection will help students better understand how globalization has impacted the classroom and led to the internationalization of schooling.

Kathy Bickmore is a Professor of Curriculum, Teaching, and Learning at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE). Ruth Hayhoe is a Professor of Comparative Higher Education at OISE. Caroline Manion is an Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, Comparative, International and Development Education at OISE. Karen Mundy is a Professor of Comparative, International, and Development Education at OISE. Robyn Read is a doctoral student at OISE.

Redefining Multicultural Education Inclusion and the Right to Be Different, Third Edition RATNA GHOSH AND MARIUSZ GALCZYNSKI

Now in its third edition, Redefining Multicultural Education argues that education programs have been historically and consistently unsuccessful in their attempts to create positive spaces for diverse student populations. Instead of celebrating diversity, classrooms have instead taught young people to view difference as deficiency. Ratna Ghosh and Mariusz Galczynski seek to change this as they persuade educators to view diversity positively and incorporate multiculturalism into their classroom pedagogy.

This accessible guide uses an expanded definition of multiculturalism that encompasses gender identity, sexual orientation, religious expression, and (dis)ability. It includes new material on recent events in Quebec and Indigenous communities and suggestions for redefining and restructuring the culture of education. This is an essential resource for teachers looking for new approaches to diversity in an increasingly multicultural society.

Ratna Ghosh is a James McGill Professor and William C. Macdonald Professor at McGill University. Mariusz Galczynski is a Lecturer at McGill University and an administrator of the Québec Ministry of Education's English Exam for Teacher Certification.

Education and the Politics of Difference Select Canadian Perspectives, Second Edition RATNA GHOSH AND ALI A. ABDI

Despite decades of multicultural education policies, cultural minorities and the peoples of the First Nations continue to be marginalized in Canadian schools. In this expanded second edition Ratna Ghosh and Ali A. Abdi provide an eye-opening account of the problematic constructions of difference in schooling contexts. Education and the Politics of Difference will inspire students to envision a school system where difference is a fundamental human trait essential for social and human well-being, making it an ideal resource for courses in the sociology of education, education policy, and inclusive education.

Ratna Ghosh is a James McGill Professor and William C. Macdonald Professor of Education at McGill University. Ali A. Abdi is a Professor of Education and Co-director of the Centre for Global Citizenship Education and Research at the University of Alberta.

Social Justice in Physical Education Critical Reflections and Pedagogies for Change

EDITED BY DANIEL B. ROBINSON AND LYNN RANDALL

A call for more inclusive approaches to physical education, Social Justice in Physical Education questions the normative pedagogical practices that marginalize and exclude students according to ability, gender, sexuality, health, race, religion, and class. Authors draw on critical pedagogy and theoretical perspectives to engage with the intersecting and specific barriers that students from diverse backgrounds may face in physical education classrooms. Each of the thirteen chapters addresses a singular theme related to a particular marginalized group, contributing to a broader vision of affirmative and culturally relevant teaching responses and prompting readers to critically reflect upon their own assumptions. This forward-thinking anthology offers a range of approaches to socially just program design and teaching practice and will be of interest to instructors teaching social justice, diversity, physical education pedagogy, and inclusive education.

Daniel B. Robinson is an Assistant Professor of Education at St. Francis Xavier University. Lynn Randall is an Associate Professor of Education at the University of New Brunswick.

FEATURES

- includes a foreword by Joannie Halas, Associate Dean of Kinesiology and Recreation Management at the University of Manitoba
- provides questions for discussion and reflection at the end of each chapter
- ideal for students of physical education and teacher education at the senior undergraduate and graduate levels

Challenging Stories

Canadian Literature for Social Justice in the Classroom

EDITED BY ANNE BURKE, INGRID JOHNSTON, AND ANGELA WARD

Researchers have found that teachers at the elementary, middle school, and secondary school levels are often unsure how to present social justice issues in the classroom. Inspired by these findings, a team of literacy scholars worked with teachers in schools across Canada to gather qualitative research that revealed possibilities and challenges literacy teachers face when incorporating social justice in their curricula. Rich in examples of contemporary Canadian social justice authors, illustrators, and texts, Challenging Stories offers teachers and teacher candidates strategies for text selection, literacy development, and effective social justice teaching methods. With a foreword by Joyce Bainbridge, this collection is an essential read for students in teacher education programs.

Anne Burke is an Associate Professor of Literacy Education and Early Learning at Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Ingrid Johnston is a Professor Emerita of English Education and Curriculum Studies in the Department of Secondary Education at the University of Alberta. Angela Ward is a Professor Emerita at the University of Saskatchewan, where she served as Assistant Dean of Education and Associate Dean for Research in Education.

Stories for Every Classroom

Canadian Fiction Portraying Characters with Disabilities

BEVERLEY A. BRENN A

Stories for Every Classroom explores the treatment of disability in Canadian literature for young people. Drawing from her experience as a classroom and special education teacher, Beverley A. Brenna considers the historical patterns and trends, theoretical frameworks, and critical literacy methods used to understand and teach children's literature, followed by an authoritative examination of contemporary books written for the K–12 grade levels, while incorporating the insightful perspectives of three Canadian authors.

This is a much-needed resource in the kit of every aspiring teacher or educator, and will make a great addition to courses that focus on children with disabilities, teaching children's literature and language arts, diversity in the classroom, and teaching exceptional children.

Beverley A. Brenna is a Professor of Curriculum Studies in the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan.

Lifelong Learning as Critical Action International Perspectives on People, Politics, Policy, and Practice

ANDRÉ P. GRACE

Winner of the 2014 Cyril O. Houle Award, Lifelong Learning as Critical Action investigates how social, cultural, and political issues shape policy-making and practice in the realm of continuing and higher education. This instructional text assesses the value of adult education in today's world of economic uncertainty and asks whether or not lifelong learning (as we know it) is able to effectively meet the needs of a diverse group of learners. This unique and engaging book is ideally suited for courses on the ethical issues surrounding education and the sociology of education.

André P. Grace is the Director of Research at the Institute for Sexual Minority Studies and Services and Professor of Education at the University of Alberta.

Pathways of Adult Learning Professional and Education Narratives

JANET GROEN AND COLLEEN KAWALILAK

This introductory textbook explores teaching and facilitation strategies aimed at adult learners of various gender orientations, ethnicities, and socio-economic backgrounds. Pathways of Adult Learning addresses areas such as the philosophical and historical underpinnings of adult learning, traditional theories of learning, contexts of work and learning, and future directions in the scholarship and practice of adult learning and education. Janet Groen and Colleen Kawalilak explore relevant and timely social issues, including equity, human rights, advocacy for marginalized populations, and power imbalances, while integrating their own personal stories of learning and reflective commentaries from Canadian scholars. This book is essential to the tool kit of every aspiring adult education teacher.

Janet Groen is an Associate Professor and Chair of Educational Studies in Adult Learning in the Werklund School of Education at the University of Calgary. Colleen Kawalilak is an Associate Professor and Associate Dean International in the Werklund School of Education at the University of Calgary.

On Reflection

An Essay on Technology, Education, and the Status of Thought in the Twenty-First Century

ELLEN ROSE

The opportunity for true reflection has been undermined by new technologies that speed up the flow of information and by curriculum that emphasizes the quantification of learning. Drawing on a wide range of thinkers, Ellen Rose outlines the important role reflective thought can play in the classroom and makes a powerful case for simply slowing down and thinking. Winner of the 2014 Marshall McLuhan Award for Outstanding Book in the Field of Media Ecology, On Reflection makes a great companion to courses on teaching and learning, technoculture, and computers and society.

Structure du français moderne

Introduction à l'analyse linguistique, quatrième édition

PIERRE LÉON ET PARTH BHATT

Le but de cet ouvrage est d’initier à l’analyse linguistique en dégagant la structure du français moderne. Cela, de la manière la plus claire possible, sans jargon inutile. Notre analyse est ouverte à tous les courants et non enfermée dans une école contraignante. L’étude de la langue nous mène à des implications stylistiques, esthétiques et sociales, d’où des incursions dans les variations individuelles, dialectales et idéologiques. Les variations du français de France, comme celles du Canada occupent ici une large place.

Des exercices à la fin de chaque chapitre offrent le moyen d’appliquer les connaissances acquises. Du bon temps en perspective pour les curieux et les amoureux de la langue!

Le regretté Pierre Léon était un professeur d’études françaises de l’Université de Toronto. Il a écrit de nombreux articles et livres en linguistique, la phonétique et phonostylistique. Il a également écrit des contes, des nouvelles, des romans et des poèmes. Parth Bhatt est professeur de français langue seconde à l’Université du Toronto.

FEATURES

- la quatrième édition de Structure du français moderne est destinée spécialement aux étudiants qui apprennent le français comme langue seconde
- le manuel comprend des exemples tirés non seulement du français européen, mais aussi des variétés du français que l’on trouve en Amérique du Nord et des créoles à base lexicale française que l’on trouve dans les Antilles et dans l’océan indien
- on trouvera à la fin du manuel un glossaire des termes utilisés
- les questions à la fin des chapitres ont été entièrement révisées et de nouvelles questions ont été ajoutées

Lire et écrire

La composition par le texte

SADIA ZOUBIR-SHAW

À l'encontre d'autres manuels de français, Lire et écrire est fondé sur l'exploration des techniques et stratégies d'écriture par l'analyse structurale et textuelle, et réunit processus et pratique en proposant les outils nécessaires au perfectionnement des capacités de lecture, de compréhension et d'écriture. Tous les chapitres commencent par l'exploration de modèles littéraires français et francophones suivis de nombreuses activités stimulant une réflexion critique sur les textes et auteurs présentés afin de mieux comprendre le lien entre style et structure. La pratique systématique d'exercices syntaxiques et sémantiques, les activités d'écriture imitant divers modèles stylistiques, l'étude d'expressions idiomatiques et dictons, la reconnaissance des faux amis pour éviter les pièges de la traduction, les activités de recherche guidée, et les questions de discussions ne sont que quelques exemples de la richesse pédagogique de Lire et écrire.

Sadia Zoubir-Shaw est professeure agrégée de linguistique à l'Université du Kentucky.

EN SUPER FORME

SIMONE RENAUD et JEAN-LUC DESALVO

En super forme

SIMONE RENAUD ET JEAN-LUC DESALVO

Simone Renaud et Jean-Luc Desalvo nous offrent un nouveau manuel scolaire dont nous attendons la sortie avec impatience. En super forme est un livre concis, qui présente l'essentiel des règles de la Grammaire Française, organisées logiquement, avec de nombreuses références avec la langue anglaise. Les auteurs ont renforcé cette partie théorique de courts extraits de littérature contemporaine, ou de textes originaux pour illustrer le thème grammatical de chaque chapitre. Ils ont ajouté des exercices de soutien, des traductions, et des suggestions de rédactions. L'aspect culturel n'est présenté que lorsqu'il est nécessaire pour clarifier la compréhension du texte choisi, mais l'emphasis reste sur la grammaire et les usages de la langue. Les étudiants du niveau intermédiaire et du niveau supérieur – formés dans quelque méthode que ce soit – trouveront dans ce livre de référence un outil précieux.

Simone Renaud est une ancienne professeure d'études françaises à l'Université du San José State. Jean-Luc Desalvo est professeur d'études françaises à l'Université du San José State

Invitation à écrire

Volumes 1 et 2, deuxième édition

CATHERINE BLACK ET LOUISE CHAPUT

Invitation à écrire est un outil d'apprentissage qui tient compte des recherches effectuées dans le domaine de l'écriture chez les apprenants en FLE (Français Langue Étrangère). Pour cela, il met l'accent sur le travail en groupe, la révision et l'apprentissage en étapes qui permettent de démystifier l'écrit dans une langue étrangère. Les annexes ajoutées décrivent les concepts de base et reprennent les points importants des divers chapitres.

La deuxième édition d'Invitation à écrire comprend deux manuels, qui ont été conçus pour les niveaux intermédiaire et avancé. Le premier volume est plutôt destiné aux étudiants de niveau B1-B2, alors que le deuxième volume vise plutôt les étudiants de niveau C1-C2 du CECR (Cadre européen commun de référence).

Catherine Black est professeure agrégée au département de Français de l'université Simon Fraser. Linguiste et didacticienne de formation, elle se spécialise en pédagogie du FLE. Louise Chaput, titulaire d'un doctorat en linguistique française de l'Université Western Ontario, fait présentement un stage postdoctoral au département d'Information et de Communication de l'Université Laval.

FEATURES

Stylistique différentielle, textologie et traduction

Deuxième édition

EGAN VALENTINE ET MARIE-CHRISTINE AUBIN

Stylistique différentielle, textologie et traduction propose une étude comparée systématisée des caractéristiques stylistiques et culturelles de l'anglais et du français, étude qui se situe généralement à l'étape initiale de la formation en traduction. Partant d'une perspective textuelle, cette nouvelle édition comporte l'étude de divers types de textes, des présentations théoriques enrichies ainsi que de nombreux exercices bidirectionnels. À la fin de chaque chapitre se trouve une bibliographie se rapportant aux notions étudiées.

Egan Valentine est professeur et directeur au département de langues modernes et de traduction à l'Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières. Marie-Christine Aubin est traductrice agréée et professeure de traduction au Collège Glendon de l'Université York à Toronto.

KERRY LAPPIN-FORTIN

La traduction : un pont de départ propose une introduction intéressante et vivante à la traduction anglais-français et français-anglais. Organisé en cinq parties, il présente les notions de base linguistiques pertinentes, les procédés, les types et les défis de la traduction, et une rubrique sur des différences structurelles des deux langues. Dans ce manuel "hybride," le contenu théorique s'accompagne d'exercices à la fois utiles et divertissants. Destiné principalement à des étudiants universitaires de niveau intermédiaire-avancé en français langue seconde, il s'avère utile dans un premier ou un deuxième cours de traduction, voire dans un cours de stylistique comparée.

Kerry Lappin-Fortin est professeure agrégée de français à l'Université du St. Jerome's à Waterloo.

Mieux traduire, mieux s'exprimer

Cahier d'exercices pour l'apprentissage du français écrit et parlé

VALENTINE WATSON RODGER

En apprenant à traduire, on se familiarise avec la grammaire, la syntaxe et le vocabulaire de la langue d'arrivée, avec les divers niveaux de cette langue. Le but de ce cahier d'exercices est, en partie, annoncé par son titre: par le moyen de la traduction, préparer l'étudiant à mieux s'exprimer, oralement et par écrit. À quoi l'on peut ajouter: à améliorer sa compréhension du français parlé et écrit.

Women's Voices from the Margins

Diaries from Kibera, Kenya

ELIZABETH SWART

Drawing on the diary entries of twenty young women living in Kibera, a large slum outside of Nairobi, Kenya, Women's Voices from the Margins is an in-depth investigation into women's experiences of gender-based violence in the Global South. Elizabeth Swart employs relevant theory and feminist scholarship to ground her analysis in the broader context of globalization, while also attending to the specific responses and strategies used by these diarists to cope with gender-based violence. Highlighting the implications of this qualitative study for policy practice and future research, this text considers the critical possibilities of localized interventions and is a valuable resource for students interested in women and violence, international social work, and women in the developing world.

Elizabeth Swart is an Adjunct Lecturer of Social Work at the University of Southern California.

Women and Genocide

Gendered Experiences of Violence, Survival, and Resistance

EDITED BY JOANN DIGEORGIO-LUTZ AND DONNA GOSBEE

Approaching genocide from a gendered perspective, this edited collection underscores the importance of women's lives to understanding genocidal experiences. Women and Genocide revisits genocides of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries, from Armenia in 1915 to Guharat in 2002, and investigates the ways in which women's experiences across these events are comparable and yet profoundly different. Drawing on narratives, testimonies, memoirs, and literature, the authors employ a consistent methodological framework to bring together women's stories of victimization, trauma, and survival. An important contribution to feminist research on genocide, war, and political violence, JoAnn DiGeorgio-Lutz and Donna Gosbee's comparative anthology is a vital resource for students and instructors in this field.

JoAnn DiGeorgio-Lutz is a Professor of Political Science and the Department Head of Liberal Studies at Texas A&M University (Galveston Campus). Donna Gosbee is a PhD candidate at the Ackerman Center for Holocaust Studies at the University of Texas at Dallas.

Gender and Women's Studies in Canada Critical Terrain

EDITED BY MARGARET HOBBS AND CARLA RICE

With essays from some of the most influential contemporary feminist writers, such as Jessica Valenti, bell hooks, Afua Cooper, and Gloria Steinem, and covering topics as diverse as transgender rights, women with disabilities, abortion, ageism, and Tyra Banks, Gender and Women's Studies in Canada goes beyond the Canadian context to form an ideal introductory level textbook for the contemporary gender studies classroom.

Reflecting the intersectional nature of feminist thought today, these essays incorporate voices from across multiple marginalities, discussing race, class, ability, age, sexuality, Aboriginal status, and weight. A unique combination of scholarly articles, news clips, fact sheets, blog posts, poetry, short fiction, and personal narratives keeps the collection engaging and varied. Margaret Hobbs and Carla Rice have compiled a comprehensive introduction to the past, present, and future of gender and women's studies in Canada.

Margaret Hobbs is an Associate Professor and Chair of Gender and Women's Studies at Trent University. Carla Rice is the Canada Research Chair in Care, Gender, and Relationships and an Associate Professor at the University of Guelph.

Queerly Canadian

An Introductory Reader in Sexuality Studies

EDITED BY MAUREEN FITZGERALD AND SCOTT RAYTER

In this comprehensive anthology, many of Canada's leading sexuality studies scholars examine the fundamental role that sexuality has played—and continues to play—in the building of our nation and in our national narratives, myths, and anxieties about Canadian identity. These innovative essays provide historical and contemporary perspectives on criminal justice, resistance, health, labour, education, family, sport, youth culture, and visual media, while considering the intersections of race, class, and gender. The first collection of its kind, Queerly Canadian will ignite much dialogue in the sexuality studies classroom.

Trans Activism in Canada

A Reader

EDITED BY DAN IRVING AND RUPERT RAJ

Reflecting upon the challenges trans communities face and offering insight into achieving institutional reform, this groundbreaking collection uses personal narratives, archival material, and qualitative research, as well as case- and community-based research, to demonstrate the leading role of trans and two-spirit activists in generating social transformation. By drawing on feminist, anti-racist, and social justice frameworks, the contributors approach oppression and activism as inseparable from hetero-patriarchal, colonialist, and capitalist power relations. The first anthology of its kind, Trans Activism in Canada will provoke discussion and inspire new directions of advocacy among students in trans studies or LGBTQ-related courses.

Dan Irving is the Coordinator of Sexuality Studies in the Institute of Interdisciplinary Studies at Carleton University. Rupert Raj is a psychotherapist specializing in gender and sexual identity issues in Toronto.

Oversight

Critical Reflections on Feminist Research and Politics

VIVIANE NAMASTE

This book interrogates contemporary feminist politics through the notion of oversight—how do particular aspects of feminist politics become visible, and what has been overlooked? Through essays, reflection pieces, and activist writing, Viviane Namaste explores diverse case studies and facets of political life with a focus on gender, sexuality, and the realities lived by trans women. Topics for consideration include women's labour, the archiving of everyday life, the history of HIV, urban development and displacement, bisexualities, and the culture of feminist activists themselves.

Its accessible tone, pedagogical questions, and suggested readings make Oversight well suited for classroom use. Its exploration of activist culture will be of particular interest to advocates of social justice both inside and outside of academia.

More Than a Labour of Love

Three Generations of Women's Work in the Home

MEG LUXTON

More Than a Labour of Love examines what we have come to recognize as “women’s work.” Analyzing both domestic and wage-labour arenas, this classic text uses critical theory and participant interviews to illustrate the gendered power dynamics involved in the maintenance of family and household. Suitable for undergraduate courses on work and equality, family, class, and political economy, the chapters in this collection tackle the historic value of “motherwork,” including child rearing, partner care, and domestic duties. Detailed and intersectional, Meg Luxton considers the ways in which women’s lives are shaped by professional and personal work within the parameters of capitalist society. Arguing that the work women do is socially necessary and central to the economy, this book calls for a reimagining of the socio-economic value of women’s labour.

Health Promotion in Canada

Critical Perspectives on Practice, Third Edition

EDITED BY IRVING ROOTMAN, SOPHIE DUPÉRÉ, ANN PEDERSON, AND MICHEL O'NEILL

Now in its third edition, Health Promotion in Canada maintains a critical perspective on Canada's path-breaking role in health promotion policy and research and adds a greater focus on the history and future of health promotion practice. Throughout the text, theories relating to health inequalities, population health in Aboriginal communities, and reflexive practice are considered in relation to the challenges, potential risks, and implications of health promotion practice in the twenty-first century. The authors consider ecological approaches to health promotion and determine methods of evaluating and transforming practices on provincial, national, and international levels. This book's four parts cover a broad range of topics and draw on case studies from each region of Canada. Thoroughly updated, and with concluding thoughts from Ilona Kickbusch, this book will be of vital interest to students in undergraduate health promotion courses within the fields of public health and nursing.

Irving Rootman has been working in the field of health promotion in government and academia for more than 30 years as a researcher, research manager, program manager, educator, and author. Sophie Dupéré is a professor in the Faculté des sciences infirmières at Université Laval. Ann Pederson is the Director of Population Health Promotion at BC Women's Hospital and Health Centre. Michel O'Neill has worked in health promotion in a variety of positions locally, nationally, and globally since 1974, including 30 years at the Faculté des sciences infirmières at Université Laval, where he is Professor Emeritus.

Public Policy and Canadian Nursing Lessons from the Field

MICHAEL J. VILLENEUVE

Public Policy and Canadian Nursing offers an extensive overview of health policy and the expanding role of nurses in Canada. Focusing specifically on the larger nursing profession, Michael J. Villeneuve examines how health politics, funding, and practices have been reformed in ways that allow nurses to more effectively influence health policy.

The three modules cover: the basics of health care policy, terminology, and governance; the history and evolution of health care in Canada and population health status; the various models for influencing and impacting public policy; and the systematic challenges that lie ahead.

Unique from other texts published in the discipline, this guide will help students enter the nursing workforce better prepared to deliver high quality care and manage teams, programs, organizations, and systems, by enlightening their understanding of the way health care services are structured, funded, and evaluated. This valuable resource is suitable for use in senior undergraduate and graduate nursing and public health policy programs.

Michael J. Villeneuve is an established nurse leader with experience in clinical care delivery, education, management, research, and policy. In addition to leading his own consulting firm, he has led multiple national and international health and nursing policy initiatives and lectures in public policy in the Health Systems Leadership and Administration graduate program for the University of Toronto's Lawrence S. Bloomberg Faculty of Nursing.

FEATURES

- includes chapter highlights, learning outcomes, discussion questions, and brief sketches of notable public policy influencers
- cites real-world examples of nursing action in public policy

A Concise Introduction to Mental Health in Canada Second Edition

ELLIOT GOLDNER, EMILY JENKINS, AND DAN BILSKER

A Concise Introduction to Mental Health in Canada offers a unique contribution to mental health literature. It covers the full spectrum of mental health issues in Canada, incorporating insights from both the physical and social sciences to expand the way readers think about mental health. Interdisciplinary and reader-friendly, this book introduces students to a wide range of topics, including substance use, children and youth, discrimination, workplace mental health, culture, gender and sexuality, diagnosis, treatment, and mental health professions.

This second edition has been updated to highlight recent scientific data, changes in terminology, new insights in the field, and timely and relevant examples of mental health issues and success stories. This engaging text provides a superb grounding for students of medicine, nursing, social work, psychology, and public health.

Mad Matters

A Critical Reader in Canadian Mad Studies

EDITED BY BRENDA A. LEFRANÇOIS, ROBERT MENZIES, AND GEOFFREY REAUME

Mad Matters is a user-led, inclusive, and evidence-supported reader that examines the emerging field of Mad Studies. A passionate read, this book brings critical attention to the matters of “madness,” including the oppression and agency of Mad subjects and the battle against psychiatry and psychiatric discourse. Throughout twenty-three absorbing chapters, readers will be introduced to an impressive range of topics in Mad Studies, including history, culture, theory, policy and law, and media representations of madness. Mad Matters is ideally suited to undergraduate students, graduate students, and educators who are interested in understanding the issues related to mental health and madness in both Canadian and international contexts.

Women's Health

Intersections of Policy, Research, and Practice, Second Edition

EDITED BY PAT ARMSTRONG AND ANN PEDERSON

In Women's Health, academics, health care professionals, and policy-makers examine the emergence of women's health as a field in Canada and investigate some of the challenges facing its advancement. This multidisciplinary collection draws from voices not normally heard and, using both qualitative and quantitative methodologies, links research, policy, and practice to explore how care work is gendered, to reveal how research can influence health policy, and to call for a renewed commitment to women's health advocacy.

This revised edition has been thoroughly updated to reflect developments in research and recent social, political, and economic changes that affect women's health. New chapters cover topics such as wait times, girls' health, and unpaid health care.

Pat Armstrong is a Distinguished Research Professor of Sociology at York University. Ann Pederson is the Director of Population Health Promotion at BC Women's Hospital and Health Centre.

Complementary, Alternative, and Traditional Medicine

Prospects and Challenges for Women's Reproductive Health

EDITED BY MARIA COSTANZA TORRI AND JENNIE M. HORNSTY

A comprehensive overview of how complementary and alternative medicine (CAM) and traditional medicine (TM) affect women's reproductive health, this volume brings together a diverse collection of perspectives from the field to explore the role of CAM and TM across cultures. Providing a detailed analysis, authors address the cultural values and medicinal uses of CAM and TM for reproductive health among women in different sociocultural environments and geographic settings. Maria Costanza Torri and Jennie Hornosty's edited collection explores how traditional practices can improve the well-being of women and highlights the differences and complementarities between traditional medicine and biomedicine. Accessible and pedagogically rich, this is a crucial contribution to medical anthropology, sociology of health and medicine, women's health, public health, and health policy.

Dr. Maria Costanza Torri is an Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of New Brunswick. Dr. Jennie M. Hornosty is a retired Adjunct Professor of Sociology at the University of New Brunswick.

Making It Better

Gender-Transformative Health Promotion

EDITED BY LORRAINE GREAVES, ANN PEDERSON, AND NANCY POOLE

Despite a longstanding consensus that social inequalities shape global patterns of illness, mainstream health promotion frameworks continue to ignore gender at relational, household, community, and state levels. Encouraging readers to rethink conventional policies, this collection offers a unique approach to gender and health promotion, and will engage students with its coverage of topical issues such as substance use, violence, mental health, workplace equality, and housing. This innovative work, featuring a diverse range of contributors, provides thoughtful strategies for initiating the transformation of gendered norms that affect health and social equity for all humans. Making It Better is well-suited to courses on health promotion, health policy, women's health, and the relationship between gender and health.

Women and HIV Prevention in Canada

Implications for Research, Policy, and Practice

EDITED BY JACQUELINE GAHAGAN

Women and HIV Prevention in Canada provides the only comprehensive, Canadian-based perspective on HIV prevention issues that affect women, girls, and transgender people. Using examples of prevention efforts from the past two decades, this multidisciplinary volume considers both the history and the future of HIV prevention initiatives within various policy, programming, and research sectors. The most authoritative Canadian voices in the field have contributed chapters on a wide variety of issues related to HIV, including minority prevention and service needs, social determinants of infection, and technologies. Each chapter concludes with a case study and related questions that will actively engage upper-level undergraduate and graduate students in epidemiology and community health, sociology of health, nursing, health promotion, health service administration, health policy, and social work.

Social Determinants of Health Canadian Perspectives, Third Edition

EDITED BY DENNIS RAPHAEL

An emphasis on individual lifestyle choices and health risks ignores the socio-economic conditions that largely shape the health of individuals and communities in Canada. The third edition of Social Determinants of Health offers a thoroughly updated discussion of these primary factors, including income, education, employment, housing, food security, gender, and race, as well as the mechanisms by which they determine the health of Canada's population.

With contributions from academics and experts from across Canada, this edited collection analyzes the structural inequalities embedded in Canadian society and how these lead to similarly unequal health outcomes. This new edition includes additional material on public policy, early childhood education, and the determinants of Indigenous peoples' health for an overview of health in Canadian society that is at once critical, comprehensive, and accessible.

Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy at the School of Health Policy Management at York University.

FEATURES

- contains in-text pedagogy including critical thinking questions and lists of recommended readings and online resources
- provides an interdisciplinary approach that integrates perspectives on the science, political economy, and sociology of health

Bioethics in Canada

A Philosophical Introduction, Second Edition

CAROL COLLIER AND RACHEL HALIBURTON

Bioethics in Canada provides students with an authoritative introduction to the concepts that shape contemporary debates in biomedical ethics. Carol Collier and Rachel Haliburton apply moral theory and bioethical principles to the most controversial ethical conflicts, including the use of human embryos in scientific research, abortion and maternal-fetal conflicts, genetics and cloning, brain death and organ transplantation, distributive justice, death, and dying. This new edition is attentive to emerging issues and is considerate of multicultural challenges in pluralistic societies. The only Canadian textbook to provide an extensive discussion of bioethical issues, Bioethics in Canada is a core text for courses in bioethics and bio-medical ethics, including nursing ethics.

Carol Collier is an Adjunct Professor of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury-Laurentian University. Rachel Haliburton is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury-Laurentian University.

Administration Ethics

Executive Decisions in Canadian Healthcare

JOSEPH M. BYRNE

Administration Ethics explores the foundations, framework, and practice of ethical decision making in healthcare administration and considers the Healthcare Administrator's role in ethical management and health policy development. Throughout the text, Joseph Byrne demonstrates the relationship between the foundational concepts of ethics theory, principles, codes, and rights. He positions each concept as a step in the Four-Stage Decision Model to assist students as they evaluate – and later participate in – exceptionally complex ethical decision making. The practical, case-based structure will appeal to graduate and upper-level graduate students in Health Administration, Health Studies, and health-related Philosophy programs as well as healthcare professionals involved in administration and management, or working within policy and health ethics committees.

Joseph M. Byrne is a Professor and the Director of the School of Health Administration at Dalhousie University. He has received awards from the American Psychological Association and the Canadian Psychological Association.

Determinants of Indigenous Peoples' Health in Canada Beyond the Social

EDITED BY MARGO GREENWOOD, SARAH DE LEEUW, NICOLE MARIE LINDSAY, AND CHARLOTTE READING

This much-needed collection explores the ways that multiple health determinants—beyond the social—impact the health status of Indigenous peoples in Canada.

The first text of its kind, Determinants of Indigenous Peoples' Health in Canada highlights the voices and expertise of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis writers from across the country. The multitude of health determinants of Indigenous peoples are considered in a selection of chapters reflecting on such diverse issues as colonialism, gender, culture, early childhood development, the environment, geography, HIV/AIDS, medicine, and policy. This revolutionary book will help students in courses on health issues, policy, healing, and public health to acquire a broad, critical understanding of the key determinants of Indigenous health.

Margo Greenwood is a Professor of Education and First Nations Studies at the University of Northern British Columbia. Sarah de Leeuw is an Associate Professor in the Northern Medical Program at the University of Northern British Columbia and Associate Professor in the School of Public and Population Health at the University of British Columbia. Nicole Marie Lindsay is a doctoral candidate in the School of Communication at Simon Fraser University and Research Associate at the National Collaborating Centre for Aboriginal Health. Charlotte Reading is a Professor in the School of Public Health and Social Policy at the University of Victoria and Director of the Centre for Aboriginal Health Research.

Strong Helpers' Teachings

The Value of Indigenous Knowledges in the Helping Professions, Second Edition

CYNDY BASKIN

Timely and accessible, Strong Helpers' Teachings skillfully illustrates the importance of Indigenous knowledges in the human services. Making space for the voices of many Indigenous and non-Indigenous scholars, practitioners, and service users, Cyndy Baskin's text models possible pathways towards relationship building and allyship. Placing Indigenous concerns and perspectives at the centre of social work disciplines, and through the use of examples and case studies, Baskin covers topics such as spirituality, research, justice, and healing. This thoroughly updated edition includes new chapters on self-care for helpers, holistic approaches to mental health, and two-spirit experiences.

This text is a call to action for all Indigenous peoples to teach what is needed to care for their communities, and for non-Indigenous peoples to listen and recognize the value of these teachings. It is an important resource for those interested in sharing, learning, and teaching Indigenous worldviews and helping practices.

Cyndy Baskin, Mi'kmaq and Celtic Nations, is an Associate Professor of Social Work at Ryerson University.

FEATURES

- offers both theory and practice relevant to many helping professions including social work, human services, and community development
- brings together the insights of many Indigenous and non-Indigenous students, professors, and practitioners
- provides concrete examples of how Indigenous approaches and knowledge can be incorporated into social work practice without appropriating their meanings and purposes

Sivumut—Towards the Future Together Inuit Women Educational Leaders in Nunavut and Nunavik

EDITED BY FIONA WALTON AND DARLENE O'LEARY

The first book of its kind, Sivumut – Towards the Future Together provides narratives, histories, and research stories written by Inuit women from communities in the Canadian Arctic. These female leaders, among the first Inuit in Nunavut and Nunavik to complete graduate-level university degrees in education, offer passionate perspectives on education in traditional Inuit camps, experiences of forced relocation to government-established communities, and the impact of residential schools. In addition, contributors reflect on Inuit involvement in curriculum development, language learning, and leadership. Fiona Walton and Darlene O'Leary's critical anthology offers hope for a new educational system grounded in Inuit culture, values, and traditions, and will be of interest to instructors teaching courses on Indigenous education, contemporary issues in the circumpolar north, and education and leadership.

Fiona Walton is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Prince Edward Island. Darlene O'Leary earned her PhD in Theology from Saint Paul University and is currently a researcher at the University of Prince Edward Island.

A Recognition of Being
Reconstructing Native Womanhood,
Second Edition
 KIM ANDERSON

A Recognition of Being is an inspiring work that explores Indigenous womanhood, highlighting both the painful legacy of colonialism and the vital potential of self-definition. Beginning with a look at the positions of women in traditional Indigenous societies and their status after colonization, Kim Anderson shows how Indigenous women have since resisted imposed roles and heteropatriarchy, reclaimed their traditions, and reconstructed a powerful Native womanhood.

Drawing from interviews with forty Indigenous women from across Canada, this revised second edition covers recent literature on Indigenous feminism and two-spirited theory. With a foreword by Maria Campbell and updated closing dialogue with Bonita Lawrence, this groundbreaking text is an ideal resource for courses in women and gender studies and Indigenous studies as well as for anyone committed to the process of decolonization.

Kim Anderson, a Cree/Métis writer and educator, is an Associate Professor of Indigenous Studies at Wilfrid Laurier University.

Iskwewak Kah' Ki Yaw Ni Wahkomakanak
Neither Indian Princesses nor Easy Squaws,
Second Edition
 JANICE ACOOSE

Now in its second edition, Iskwewak Kah' Ki Yaw Ni Wahkomakanak is a foundational work of literary and cultural criticism. Deconstructing stereotypical images of the “Indian princess” and “easy squaw,” Janice Acoose reflects on the racism and sexism inherent to the colonial, historical, and contemporary representations of Indigenous women in Euro-Canadian literature and culture. Interweaving personal narrative and photographs with literary criticism, Acoose highlights influential Indigenous women writers who have made space for themselves in the literary field and who continue to challenge cultural stereotypes with stories of their own. This revised and thoroughly updated edition, which also addresses the current crisis of missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls in Canada, remains an invaluable resource for students and instructors of Indigenous studies, women's studies, and literature.

Janice Acoose's roots stem from the Sakimay Indian Reserve and the Marival Métis Community. She is a Professor at the First Nations University of Canada.

Princess Pocahontas and the Blue Spots

MONIQUE MOJICA

Rich in satire, Monique Mojica's critique of the misrepresentation of Indigenous women in American myth, literature, and documentary confronts a longstanding history of sexual violence and condemns colonial traditions that represent Indigenous women as little more than creators and healers. Since it was first published in 1991, Princess Pocahontas and the Blue Spots has become a classic in Canadian theatre and is still widely studied at universities and colleges around the world.

The remarkable CBC radio play Birdwoman and the Suffragettes: A Story of Sacajawea is also included.

Monique Mojica is a Kuna-Rappahannock half-breed, a woman word-warrior, a mother, an actor, and a playwright. She is a founding member and former artistic director of Native Earth Performing Arts

Bobbi Lee Indian Rebel

LEE MARACLE

Lee Maracle's Bobbi Lee Indian Rebel tells the narrative of an Indigenous woman raised in North America who finds her strength despite the forces that challenge and oppress her. Grippingly honest, Lee's autobiographical exploration of post-colonial tensions in Toronto circa 1960-1980 sheds light on the existing racist and sexist sentiments affecting Indigenous women. Reflective of the struggles Indigenous communities face today, this book continues to hold a place within contemporary Indigenous and women's studies classrooms.

Lee Maracle is a Professor of Aboriginal Studies at the University of Toronto and an award-winning First Nations Coast Salish author and poet. She has received the Queen's Diamond Jubilee medal, a "Writer of the Year" award from Circle Craft, a North American Native Writer's circle, and the JT Stewart Award for her body of work.

The First Nations of Ontario Social and Historical Transitions

EDWARD J. HEDICAN

The First Nations of Ontario depicts the historical transitions and the contemporary economic and social conditions of the Indigenous population in Ontario. The book begins with an archaeological overview of the culture and traditions of Indigenous communities, and then examines the first stages of colonialism, outlines the treaty-making process in Ontario, and analyzes the challenges First Nations communities continue to face in present society. These challenges include: neo-colonial trends; limited access to resource development; the economic difficulties of living on reserves; out-migration; and the continued enforcement of the Indian Act. Topics are considered within the larger contemporary context of Indigenous issues in Canada and the complexities of restorative justice. This rich and accessible text is suitable for first and second year Anthropology and Indigenous Studies courses.

Edward J. Hedin is a Professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Guelph. He is widely considered as one of today's foremost Canadian anthropologists.

The Indigenous Experience Global Perspectives

EDITED BY ROGER C.A. MAAKA AND CHRIS ANDERSEN

The Indigenous Experience introduces upper-level undergraduate students to the diversity and richness of global Indigenous experiences as well as the consequences of colonialism. Written by top scholars in the field, the readings in this volume constitute a broad survey of Indigenous peoples from around the globe, including North America, Latin America, and Oceania. Themes include the processes of colonization and cultural genocide, the implications of globalization on Indigenous populations, and the construction of myths. Issues of prejudice, criminalization, racial stereotyping, and the ongoing struggle to attain justice, self-determination, and equity are further explored. This provocative text contributes powerfully to the canon of contemporary Indigenous Studies and is essential for use in all Indigenous Studies programs.

Research as Resistance

Revisiting Critical, Indigenous, and Anti-Oppressive Approaches, Second Edition

EDITED BY SUSAN STREGA AND LESLIE BROWN

This second edition of Research as Resistance revisits the resistance-based methods found in the first edition and reflects upon their ongoing resurgence in the social sciences. Substantially updated to draw from the latest Indigenous, feminist, and critical race scholarship, this collection includes chapters that explore narrative studies, Foucauldian methods, and queer theory, as well as community action and Indigenous research.

The contributors to this volume include both emerging and established scholars who write from marginalized perspectives as they address a variety of methodologies, theoretical issues, and ontological and epistemological considerations. Demonstrating how participatory methodologies can be matched with critical reflexivity to unlock the emancipatory power of research, this new edition of Research as Resistance will prove invaluable to anyone committed to anti-oppressive practice within the social sciences.

Susan Strega is a Professor in the School of Social Work at the University of Victoria. Leslie Brown is a Professor in the School of Social Work and the Director of the Institute for Studies and Innovation in Community-University Engagement at the University of Victoria.

FEATURES

- emphasizes both the theoretical foundations and practical applications of participatory research
- includes a comprehensive introduction outlining developments that have occurred since the first edition
- offers material accessible to both inexperienced and experienced researchers

Linguistic Anthropology

A Brief Introduction

MARCEL DANESI

An An amalgam of two disciplines, Linguistic Anthropology provides a concrete method for studying the relation between language and society, and aims to examine and document how language mirrors social structure and culture-specific thought patterns. Marcel Danesi maintains an accessible and engaging style throughout and draws upon theoretical models of language to demonstrate how language forms (including pronunciation, grammar, and vocabulary) interact with language use (such as in conversation, discourse, or classification) in a variety of cultures.

This practical book includes well-known theories as well as original research, and is ideal for introductory-level linguistics courses that adopt a cultural focus. This text has been restructured and streamlined to suit one-semester classes.

Rethinking Society in the 21st Century Critical Readings in Sociology, Fourth Edition

EDITED BY MICHELLE WEBBER AND KATE BEZANSON

A comprehensive exploration of critical debates in Canadian society, this unique and engaging introductory textbook balances classical sociological theory and contemporary scholarship to equip students with a broad knowledge of the foundational elements of sociology. Employing a logical, easy-to-follow format, Michelle Webber and Kate Bezanson consider the major social processes existing within various institutions, including families, education, work, health care, and media, and address topics related to social class, gender, sexualities, ethnicity, and race throughout.

The substantially revised fourth edition also features an updated selection of readings on indigeneity and trans issues, as well as a new section that explores social movements, social change, and emerging fields. With an emphasis on Canadian content, Rethinking Society in the 21st Century is the ideal companion reader for Canadian students of sociology.

Michelle Webber is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at Brock University. Kate Bezanson is an Associate Professor and Chair of the Department of Sociology at Brock University.

FEATURES

- draws on works by a number of classical theorists, including Marx, Durkheim, and Weber
- features readings by Canadian authors and content on distinctly Canadian social issues
- appropriate for university and college-level courses in sociology

The Tattoo Project

Commemorative Tattoos, Visual Culture, and the Digital Archive

EDITED BY DEBORAH DAVIDSON

Unique in scope and content, this methods-based text draws on the process of creating a digital archive of commemorative tattoos to examine the production and mobilization of knowledge across communities, disciplines, and space. Deborah Davidson's multidisciplinary collection addresses the cultural history of tattooing and the social meanings and implications of commemorative tattoos—tattoos that hold significant value for their bearer.

A practical resource for those undertaking archival research or collecting and sharing information across disciplines, this text acts as a template for building connections between academic and non-academic communities. Bridging the gap between theory and practice, The Tattoo Project offers critical insights and tools for courses focused on research methodologies and digital humanities, and provides innovative content for those studying the body, visual culture, and commemoration.

Deborah Davidson is an Associate Professor of Sociology at York University.

Sociology of Home

Belonging, Community, and Place in the Canadian Context

EDITED BY GILLIAN ANDERSON, JOSEPH MOORE,
AND LAURA SUSKI

The first Canadian collection of its kind, Sociology of Home draws on sociological approaches to family, urban and rural communities, and migration and immigration to discuss the idea of “home”—an intensely personal concept that is, in its varying iterations, bound to larger economic and political systems. Moving from private homemaking to community building to political ecology, authors investigate home as a constructed space within the context of a diverse set of cultural, political, built, and natural landscapes that ground Canadian experiences. This comprehensive introductory reader explores a diversity of homes and homemaking and is an important contribution to the sociological studies of home, family, environment, gender, and social inequality.

Gillian Anderson is a Professor of Sociology at Vancouver Island University. Joseph Moore is a Professor of Anthropology and Sociology at Douglas College. Laura Suski is a Professor of Sociology and Liberal Studies at Vancouver Island University.

Geeks, Goths, and Gangstas

Youth Culture and the Evolution of Modern Society

MARCEL DANESI

From the recording of Elvis Presley’s “Heartbreak Hotel,” through the hippie movement, punk, goth, hip-hop, and others, youth culture has radically reshaped our world. Race relations, gender roles, sexuality, and aging have all been transformed by the forces unleashed in 1956. In lively and accessible prose, Marcel Danesi offers a fresh interpretation of that history and a vindication of today’s unfairly maligned youth culture. This authoritative examination of over fifty years of social change provides a fascinating analysis of popular culture and the ways in which it has influenced and transformed our social worlds. This is a stimulating text well-suited for use in courses in cultural or media studies, or those examining the sociology of youth.

Marcel Danesi is a Professor of Anthropology at the University of Toronto.

Race and Racialization

Essential Readings

EDITED BY TANIA DAS GUPTA, CARL E. JAMES, ROGER C.A. MAAKA, GRACE-EDWARD GALABUZI, AND CHRIS ANDERSEN

Theoretically rich, this provocative volume unites historical, comparative, and international contributions from a remarkable ensemble of academic thinkers and writers who have opened the way for dialogue on the failures of integration and multiculturalism.

At the forefront is an exploration of institutional racism that will influence the way students understand racial thinking. Themes of ethnocentrism, cultural genocide, conquest and colonization, disease and pandemics, slavery, and the social construction of racism run throughout.

Providing a thorough examination of these topics, Race and Racialization is an indispensable resource for courses centered on race studies as well as other forms of oppression.

Trauma-Informed Juvenile Justice in the United States

JUDAH OUDSHOORN

Judah Oudshoorn addresses the context of youth offending by examining both individual trauma—including its emotional, cognitive, and behavioural effects—and collective trauma. The volume tackles some of the most challenging problems facing juvenile justice in the United States today, especially the ongoing cycles of intergenerational trauma caused by patriarchal violence and the over-incarceration of African American, Latino, and Native American youth.

Featuring a foreword written by Howard Zehr, case stories from the author's own work with victims and offenders, questions for reflection, glossaries of key terms, and lists of recommended readings, this engaging text is the ideal resource for students in the field of juvenile justice.

Judah Oudshoorn is a Professor of Community and Criminal Justice at Conestoga College. He is also a Restorative Justice Mediator with the Correctional Service of Canada, a Sessional Instructor of Peace and Conflict Studies at the University of Waterloo, and an Editorial Board Member of the Internet Journal of Restorative Justice. Professor Oudshoorn is the Editor of Canadian Scholars' new Justice Studies Series.

Trauma-Informed Youth Justice in Canada A New Framework toward a Kinder Future

JUDAH OUDSHOORN

Trauma-Informed Youth Justice in Canada provides a comprehensive overview of youth justice in Canada and identifies trauma as one of the root causes of crime. Most young offenders have experienced some sort of trauma in their childhood; however, Canada's youth justice system punishes their criminal behaviour with little regard for this important context. In this volume, Judah Oudshoorn argues that a framework of trauma-informed youth justice is needed to understand youth offenses and recommends a model of intervention based upon prevention and healing.

He is also a Restorative Justice Mediator with the Correctional Service of Canada, a Sessional Instructor of Peace and Conflict Studies at the University of Waterloo, and an Editorial Board Member of the Internet Journal of Restorative Justice. Youth and Society

The Long and Winding Road, Third Edition

VAPPU TYYSKÄ

This updated and expanded third edition critically examines the problems facing today's youth. Vappu Tyyskä's expert synthesis of Canadian, American, and British sources illustrates that the negative stereotypes commonly associated with adolescents are not supported by sociological research. On the contrary, social institutions alternately neglect, exploit, and penalize young people. Tyyskä introduces readers to the most significant findings of a generation of research in the field, stressing the variables of social class, race and ethnicity, and gender. This pedagogically rich work has been commended for its focus on timely issues such as families and socialization, sexuality, mental health, crime, education, and work. Youth and Society will be of value to sociologists, as well as practitioners in the field of child and youth studies.

The Sociology of Childhood and Youth Studies in Canada

Categories, Inequalities, Engagement

EDITED BY XIAOBEI CHEN, REBECCA RABY, AND PATRIZIA ALBANESE

The Sociology of Childhood and Youth Studies in Canada explores ways to effectively conduct research in academic and non-academic communities and to engage youth in our society. Featuring material from the Children, Childhood, and Youth Research Cluster's sessions of June 2015, this timely reader discusses the relationships between researchers and youth participants and the impact of literature, consumerism, and inclusive education policies on the development of social constructions of childhood. Considering these topics within various frameworks that draw on race, gender, and disability, this collection will appeal to senior level undergraduate students of sociology, women's and gender studies, child and youth studies, child and youth care, and early childhood education.

Xiaobei Chen is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Carleton University. Rebecca Raby is a Professor in the Department of Child and Youth Studies at Brock University. Patrizia Albanese is a Professor in the Department of Sociology at Ryerson University.

Family Matters

An Introduction to Family Sociology in Canada, Second Edition

BARBARA A. MITCHELL

Refreshingly succinct and engaging, Family Matters is a comprehensive introduction to family sociology in Canada. This popular textbook has a strong focus on contemporary Canadian theory and concisely summarizes research on a wide variety of matters relevant to the lives of students from diverse family backgrounds. Author Barbara Mitchell makes use of current news headlines and statistical information on family trends throughout, employing a feminist perspective to demonstrate the importance of viewing family life from a gendered lens.

Now with a wealth of supplementary materials available to support and guide classroom use, this second edition steers students through three central areas of focus: conceptualizing and studying continuity, diversity, and social change in families; the life course of families across the generations; and critical issues facing families today, including matters of social policy. It is appropriate for use in introductory and upper-year level courses on family sociology.

Barbara A. Mitchell is a Professor of Sociology at Simon Fraser University, jointly appointed in the Department of Gerontology.

FEATURES FROM THE UPCOMING THIRD EDITION

- recent statistics and contemporary cultural references
- additional material on skipped generation families, disability in families, participatory research methods, and the influence of new communication technologies on family life
- separate examinations of Indigenous families and immigrant families
- expanded coverage of refugee families as well as LAT and polyamorous partnerships

Immigration, Public Policy, and Health

Newcomer Experiences in Developed Nations

EDITED BY DENNIS RAPHAEL

A critical assessment of how public policy affects the health of immigrants, this interdisciplinary volume is an integral contribution to the study of immigration in modern developed nations. Authors employ a welfare state analysis to examine the political and economic systems that shape public policy, turning to several Canadian and international case studies that demonstrate how these policies specifically impact immigrant experiences and health outcomes. Exploring ideals of multiculturalism, solidarity, and equity, Dennis Raphael's edited collection is an excellent resource for students interested in comparative health care systems, health economics, and global immigrant experiences.

Missing Persons

Multidisciplinary Perspectives on the Disappeared

EDITED BY DEREK CONGRAM

Uniting the voices of twenty-two experts from academic, government, and civil sectors who study and help search for missing persons in Canada and internationally, Derek Congram's new collection responds to growing public awareness of persons who have disappeared due to armed conflict, repressive regimes, criminal behaviour, and racist and colonial policies towards Indigenous persons and minority populations. Missing Persons centres its attention on scientists, law-enforcement agents, and researchers, and how they serve and relate to those who seek others. This multidisciplinary volume both attends to the varied circumstances of disappearance and illustrates how disparate contexts connect, making for a valuable comparative resource in criminology and forensic anthropology, science, and psychology classrooms.

Politics and Sex

Exploring the Connections between Gender, Sexuality, and the State

EDNA KEEBLE

The study of politics is traditionally founded on a fundamental distinction between the public and private spheres. Politics and Sex demonstrates how the “private” is also a site of power. Focusing on the particular challenges faced by women, Edna Keeble interrogates the relationship between the desire to control female sexuality and gender inequality in a broader political context. This introductory text brings together a diverse collection of issues including body image, body politics, the veiling of women, female genital mutilation or cutting, rape and sexual violence, pornography, and prostitution, and will encourage informed conversations about gender and sexuality in the political science classroom.

Rethinking Normalcy

A Disability Studies Reader

EDITED BY TANYA TITCHKOSKY AND ROD MICHALKO

Rethinking Normalcy introduces the rapidly growing field of disability studies to undergraduate audiences. Strongly interdisciplinary, this volume draws upon many different social and cultural approaches to address disability as a social and political construction. Diverse chapters unite theoretical perspectives and personal accounts to critically analyze notions of disability as a personal tragedy, an abnormality, or an individual matter. Topics addressed in this reader include a review of the discipline, the normalization of suffering, institutionalization, law and policy, education and work, and issues of race, class, gender, sexuality, and nation.

Dissonant Disabilities

Women with Chronic Illnesses Explore Their Lives

EDITED BY DIANE DRIEDGER AND MICHELLE OWEN

An attempt to stimulate discussion and debate, Dissonant Disabilities emphasizes that analyses of disability must take gender into account. Distinct from books on this topic that adopt a medical or self-help perspective, this collection invites the reader to examine key issues in the lives of women with chronic illnesses, including shame, blame, and power imbalances in family, work, and education. The authors explore how society reacts to women with chronic illnesses and how these women cope with the uncertainty of their bodies in a society that desires certainty. This text continues to be popular for courses in disability studies, women's studies, and sociology of health and gender.

Disability, Rights Monitoring, and Social Change

Building Power out of Evidence

EDITED BY MARCIA H. RIOUX, PAULA C. PINTO, AND GILLIAN PAREKH

As discussions of disability rights break new ground across disciplines, this timely collection explores and challenges the ways in which disability rights are monitored. Grassroots activists, international scholars, and United Nations advisors contribute to this volume to address the current theoretical, methodological, and practical issues surrounding disability rights monitoring and to offer an in-depth look at law and policy reforms, as well as best practices. Disability, Rights Monitoring, and Social Change also investigates the complex issues of intersectionality that arise for women, Indigenous peoples, and other groups with diverse disabilities.

This collection calls for the inclusion of people with disabilities in the processes that involve them, and serves as a guide for anyone interested in the effective practice of disability and human rights monitoring.

Work and Labour in Canada

Critical Issues, Third Edition

ANDREW JACKSON AND MARK P. THOMAS

Now in its third edition, Work and Labour in Canada explores critical issues Canadian labourers face on a daily basis, concerning the development of modern capitalist structures, low wages and the increase in unpaid and alienated employment, gendered and racialized divisions of labour, and accessibility in the work environment. Andrew Jackson and Mark P. Thomas draw upon updated statistics, figures, and case studies to identify the economic, social, and political processes that influence contemporary workplace environments, and offer democratic alternatives to the current organizational structure of the Canadian workforce. This new edition also includes discussions on contemporary workers' movements and temporary foreign labourer programs. A resource for activists and researchers, this text is suitable for upper-level undergraduate courses in sociology of work and labour studies.

Working with Families A Guide for Health and Human Services Professionals

PATRICIA SPINDEL

This concise, hands-on guide provides undergraduate students with a wealth of information about the issues and challenges facing today's families. Exposing readers to clinical and sociological perspectives and employing an empowerment approach, Patricia Spindel provides practical strategies for promoting resilience and positive family functioning. Students will be led through a comprehensive range of topics such as diverse family structures, healthy and unhealthy forms of communication, family culture and beliefs, couple dynamics, addiction, and developmental and psychiatric disabilities. Spindel also considers military families, the effects of violence and trauma, and professional ethics and self-care.

Working with Families is the definitive manual for family and family dynamics courses found in social service worker, early childhood education, and child and youth worker programs.

Patricia Spindel taught at both the University of Guelph-Humber and Humber College, where she also coordinated the Social Services Work Program and was Associate Dean of Health Sciences.

FEATURES

- case studies demonstrate real-life struggles individuals often face in their families of origin
- practical focus helps students build solid skills for their future work in the health and human services
- accessible, plain language enables students to understand common issues when working with families
- material promotes discussion, learning, and self-awareness among students
- provides techniques for applying a multicultural lens to any subject area or level of study

Just Say Know

A Counsellor's Guide to Psychoactive Drugs

RICK CSIERNIK

One in four families in Canada is directly affected by psychoactive substance abuse, and in any given year one in five Canadians will experience a mental health or addiction problem. In Just Say Know, addiction expert Rick Csiernik presents the qualities, properties, effects, and consequences of psychoactive drugs, while also examining issues of abuse, tolerance, dependence, therapeutic utility, and toxic effects. This essential handbook enables students to recognize the drug a client is using, as well as appreciate the similarities and differences between drug families and how they affect the brain.

Just Say Know is a must-read for all counsellors, therapists, social workers, and health workers interested in acquiring a practical understanding of psychoactive drug pharmacology and physiology.

Rick Csiernik is a Professor of Social Work at King's University College at Western University.

Substantially revised, the third edition of Responding to the Oppression of Addiction brings together the voices of over 40 academics and social work practitioners from across Canada to provide a diverse and multidimensional perspective to the study of addiction. This edition features eight new chapters, including a first-person narrative on the effects of residential schools on Indigenous peoples. Themes include prevention initiatives, program descriptions, the special needs of different populations, policy perspectives framed within an anti-oppression standpoint, and the emerging topic of problem gambling. This varied collection is an indispensable resource for students and practitioners working in the fields of social work and addictions studies.

Substance Use and Abuse

Everything Matters, Second Edition

RICK CSIERNIK

Thoroughly updated, the new edition of Substance Use and Abuse is an essential introduction to psychoactive drugs. Focusing on the bio-psycho-social components of addiction, Rick Csiernik offers a comprehensive overview of fundamental concepts and theories of addiction, treatment options and resources, and numerous prevention strategies. This indispensable text discusses the legal, ethical, and practice requirements for becoming a competent addiction counsellor.

Incorporating contemporary issues and recent advances in the field of addiction counselling, this second edition examines topics such as fetal alcohol spectrum disorder and solvent abuse syndrome, drug treatment courts, various new drugs, and emerging treatment options such as Internet counselling, narrative therapy, and e-cigarettes.

Substance Use and Abuse is a timely and much-needed resource for both students and counsellors seeking to treat individuals dealing with addiction.

Rick Csiernik is a Professor of Social Work at King's University College at Western University.

FEATURES

- includes discussion questions at the end of each chapter
- two appendices offer a brief history of psychoactive drugs in Canadian and global contexts
- ideal for Canadian university- and college-level courses in social work and addiction counselling

LGBTQ People and Social Work Intersectional Perspectives

EDITED BY BRIAN J. O'NEILL, TRACY A. SWAN, AND NICK J. MULÉ

Curated by Canadian social workers, LGBTQ People and Social Work is a progressive and thought-provoking anthology designed to prepare students to deliver social services. This informative collection begins with a look at the current social and political tensions that exist within LGBTQ community members in Canada. After critical considerations, leading academics apply various theoretical perspectives to address oppressive agency policies and social work practices that impact diverse LGBTQ populations. This book concludes with an insightful analysis of a variety of complex issues that arise both in the classroom and in field education settings. By focusing on intersectionality and its application to social work practice, organizational change, and the pursuit of social justice, this text gives voice to previously silenced members of the LGBTQ community.

This text offers timely content relevant to students and professionals in nursing, community medicine, counselling psychology, equity studies, and gender studies, and is a vital resource for every student engaged in social work.

Brian J. O'Neill is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at the University of British Columbia. Tracy A. Swan is a recently retired Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Memorial University. Nick J. Mulé is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at York University.

FEATURES

- offers perspectives of practitioners, students, and activists
- provides examples of the discriminatory impacts of agency policies and practices in service such as trans health care, child welfare, seniors' services, settlement of newcomers to Canada, and community work
- presents thoughtful recommendations to inform future social work pedagogy, agency policy, and forms of practice in diverse contexts and fields of service

Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Research

EDITED BY HENRY PARADA AND SAMANTHA WEHBI

This reflective collection examines anti-oppressive research methods and the effective implementation of those methods within social work settings. Comparing phenomenological, auto-ethnographic, survey-based, and arts-based research approaches, Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Research outlines the challenges and advantages of conducting research with marginalized communities and within organizational contexts. Research topics include whiteness, racism, trans experiences, disability, feminism, and institutional social services, among others.

Students in social work programs will gain a thorough understanding of the decision-making processes involved in conducting anti-oppression research studies through contemporary examples of anti-oppression research applications and personal experiences within the field.

Henry Parada is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Ryerson University. Samantha Wehbi is a Professor in the School of Social Work at Ryerson University.

Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Practice

EDITED BY SAMANTHA WEHBI AND HENRY PARADA

This informative resource responds to recent developments in social work practices in North America and abroad through its exploration of anti-oppression practice. This groundbreaking collection demonstrates the transformative potential of inclusive practices, such as Indigenous practice principles, through concrete examples of anti-oppression work with marginalized populations. Contributors also reveal how anti-oppression approaches more strongly combat a diversity of social issues, including anti-Black sanism, normative constructions of grief, discrimination against queer populations, and children and youth injustices.

Accessible and engaging, Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Practice will appeal to industry professionals and undergraduate students interested in examining original research on social work practitioners' experiences with anti-oppression practices.

Structural Social Work in Action Examples from Practice

EDITED BY STEVEN F. HICK, HEATHER I. PETERS, TAMMY CORNER, AND TRACY LONDON

This text uses concrete examples to illustrate the ways in which structural social work theory is being successfully implemented in practice. Academics and practitioners have collaborated in each chapter to provide theoretical and practical insights that will help practitioners, scholars, and students consider progressive ways of challenging economic, social, and political structures while helping individuals, families, and communities. Rather than critiquing failing policies and approaches, this optimistic text showcases what is working—and what is still possible.

Homelessness, Housing, and Mental Health Finding Truths—Creating Change

EDITED BY CHERYL FORCHUK, RICK CSIERNIK, AND ELSABETH JENSEN

This collection of essays features scholars and practitioners in the fields of nursing, social work, and community health. Each piece speaks to the ways in which homelessness, poverty, and mental illness are inextricably linked, thus contributing to our ability to understand and address these challenges. Among the critical and thought-provoking issues discussed are the search for adequate housing among mental health survivors, the effects of deinstitutionalization, and the myths and stigmas surrounding mental illness.
